

HEALTH, SAFETY & ENVIRONMENT

Our clients, employees and partners share a common certainty about FTI: safety is our #1 priority. Health and safety are more than policies at FTI; they are the foundation of how we work in the field, at our sites, and in our offices.

In addition to benefiting our employees through reduced injuries and lost work, our commitment to safety is a leading indicator for our clients of strong performance throughout the project life cycle.

FTI's Health, Safety & Environmental values defined:

- Our goal is zero workplace incidents.
- We not only incorporate "best practices" into our safety culture, we create them.
- We rely on experience, continuous training, and adherence to strict standards to ensure the safety of our employees, our partners, and our surrounding communities.
- Each one of our employees shares an obligation to prevent accidents and is expected to conduct business in a way that actively integrates the elements of the FTI Health, Safety and Environment Program into applicable aspects of our operations.
- Immersion in our safety culture begins on the first day of employment—from ergonomics to regulatory-compliant training, from case studies to on-site assessments.
- Our commitment to safety has garnered recognition from clients, regulators and professional organizations worldwide.
